

Hugh Morris

Hugh Morris is the Community Outreach Representative for the National Association of Realtors in Washington, DC. He has spent the last 15 years working on urban planning in a variety of contexts, including a transportation consulting firm, an energy-efficiency oriented nonprofit research organization, the Rails-to-Trails Conservancy, and most recently is working with the smart growth group at the National Association of Realtors.